Kellerberrin

Located 22km east of Tammin is the townsite of Kellerberrin, a charming regional community steeped in a vibrant history dating back from its Indigenous people to European pioneers. One of the best ways to see the main sites of the town is to follow the Kellerberrin Heritage Trail (see #7 at map ref D5). Commencing at the Pioneer Museum on Leake Street with its interesting array of local memorabilia, the trail takes in excellent examples of 19th and early 20th century architecture at the flour mill, post office, St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Massingham House and the fire station.

While in town, don't miss the 2/28th Battalion Park — a memorial honouring the service and dedication of local men and women who served in the 2/28th Battalion and the Nursing Corps. For spectacular views of the town and surrounding landscape, head up to the Kellerberrin Hill Lookout (see #8 at map ref D5).

With a range of accommodation options, Kellerberrin is a great spot to stop for the night before continuing your Eastern Wheatbelt adventure along the Granite Way toward Bruce Rock. The Granite Way is a 60km self-drive trail that takes visitors to some of the most impressive granite rocks in the Wheatbelt including Mount Caroline (see #9 at map ref D6) and Mount Stirling (see southern #9 at map ref D6), both of which are located approximately 20km south of Kellerberrin.

View over Kellerberrin township

The Eastern Wheatbelt self-drive trail takes visitors on a journey through the towns and surrounding landscape of Cunderdin, Tammin, Kellerberrin, Bruce Rock, Merredin, Westonia and Southern Cross. Here you will find communities rich in heritage, nature reserves abundant in wildflowers and native flora and fauna, soaring granite outcrops and vast salt lakes.

The Eastern Wheatbelt self-drive trail features 21 key sites but if you have time to stay and explore longer, you will find that there is a whole lot more on offer.

Duration: 3 nights, 4 days

Distance: 770km (one-way from Perth)

Road Conditions: Sealed roads with stretches of maintained unsealed roads to some attractions.

Accommodation: Bed & breakfasts, self-contained units, farm stays, motels, hotels, caravan parks, RV-friendly towns and free camp sites.

Bruce Rock

Travelling from Kellerberrin along the Granite Way you will reach Kokerbin Rock (see #10 at map ref D7), the third largest monolith in Australia. Drive to the top for sweeping views over the countryside, or park at the base and walk to the peak, taking in the native flora and fauna and Devil's Marbles.

Nearby at Kwolyin (see #10 at map ref E7), is a free camp site with toilets, camp kitchen and picnic shelters. The Kwolyin loop trails take visitors through bushland, across Coarin Rock and a walk along the old railway line. Visitors can also take a stroll around the old town site and learn more of its history from the interpretive signage.

On your drive toward the town of Bruce Rock, stop in at Shackleton to see Australia's smallest bank (see #11 at map ref E7). Once you arrive in Bruce Rock take a stroll along the Centennial Mosaic Pathway located on Johnson Street (see #12 at map ref F7), visit the Bruce Rock Museum (where you will find an original one-room school house and replica mudbrick settlers' cottage) and Machinery Museum.

Then meander through the beautifully landscaped grounds of Remembrance Park, which features memorials, sculptures and artworks designed to depict the theme of war and peace.

Merredin

As you drive toward Merredin from Bruce Rock you will come across Totadgin Conservation Park (see #13 at map ref G5), a National Trust Heritage Site, where you will find a granite outcrop with a similar wave formation to Wave Rock. As the regional hub of the Eastern Wheatbelt, Merredin has a good selection of accommodation and meal options and is a great choice to spend the second night on the drive trail.

While in Merredin visit Cummins Theatre, located at 31 Bates Street, which is steeped in local history and hosts high quality performances year-round. Also in town you can explore Merredin's Railway and Military Museums or take a quick drive 3km west of town to view one of the Public Silo Trail sites (see #14 at map ref G5).

Merredin Peak Reserve and Railway Dam (see #15 at map ref G5), located 1km northeast of town is a popular picnic spot and overnight camp for self-contained RVs. A walking trail with interpretive signage explaining the early catchment scheme and water pipeline leads to the top of the peak which provides 360 degrees view of Merredin and surrounds.

Adjacent to Merredin Peak is a short self-drive trail to the remains of the World War II Army Hospital site, one of many historic military installations dotted throughout the region as reminders of Merredin's role as the second line of defence.

Westonia

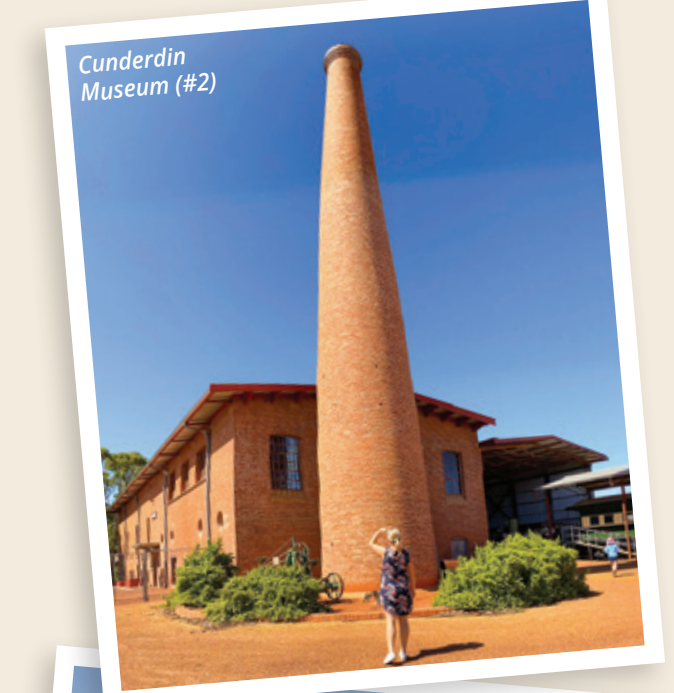

Westonia came into existence with the discovery of gold in 1910. The most striking thing about Westonia is its unique charm and natural surroundings, nestled amongst 5,600 ha of salmon gum, morrell and gimlet woodland interspersed with granite outcrops and remnants of the town's gold mining history.

The main street features charming façades of the original bank and other historic buildings such as the café, hotel, fire station, boarding house, and greengrocer, as they were back in the 1920s. The Westonia Hood-Penn Museum, located on Wolfram Street (see

Cunderdin

Just 132km—or around 1.5 hours—east of Perth along the Great Eastern Highway lies the town of Meckering, your starting point for the Eastern Wheatbelt self-drive trail. Step into history at the Earthquake Gardens (see #1 at map ref A5), where powerful displays recall the devastation of the 1968 Meckering Earthquake. View a warped section of the railway line, twisted remains of the Golden Pipeline, and a collection of photographs, statistics, and interpretive signage that bring the event to life. Directly across the road, take a peaceful stroll through the memorial rose garden, a testament to the dedication and community spirit of local volunteers.

From Meckering, it's a short drive to Cunderdin, home to one of the finest rural museums in Western Australia. Housed in the former No. 3 Steam Pumping Station, the Cunderdin Museum (see #2 at map ref B6), features an extensive collection of pioneer-era artefacts, a Tiger Moth aircraft, the original Quelagetting School building, and an immersive display that recreates the experience of the 1968 earthquake. Right next door, stretch your legs at the CY O'Connor Community Park (see #3 at map ref B6). This modern facility includes playgrounds, a ninja warrior course, BBQs, shaded areas, a skate park, and a basketball court—making it a perfect spot to unwind or let the kids burn off some energy.

Cunderdin Museum (#2)

Silo Art Trail, Merredin (#14)

#16 at map ref I4), showcases early life in the shire, including a mine tunnel and blast simulation. The Edna May Mine Lookout, located 1km north of town, offers views over a working gold mine. Continue your drive approximately 10km north of town and you will find Sandford Rocks Nature Reserve (see #17 at map ref I3). Experience the granite outcrop, wildflowers scrub and woodland, this area is a must do for bird and wildflower enthusiasts.

Your final stop in the Westonia Shire is Baladjie Rock (see #18 at map ref I2), an extensive granite outcrop in an attractive woodland setting adjacent to Lake Baladjie. Climb the rock for a spectacular view of the lake before making the 55km drive south-east to Southern Cross.

Tammin

Continue your journey east to the town of Tammin where you'll discover the Kadjininy Kep Hydrology Model and Amphitheatre (see #4 at map ref D5) in Memorial Park. This engaging display demonstrates the impact of salinity on the Wheatbelt landscape. The park's shady lawns, BBQ facilities, and playground make it an ideal picnic spot, with public toilets conveniently located behind the Shire Office.

From town travel 26km North to Yorkkrakine Rock, a solid granite outcrop surrounded by native flora. Follow the walk trail up and over the rock where you'll find gnamma holes, pockets of vegetation, and sweeping views of the surrounding landscape.

Southern Cross

Southern Cross was named after the stars that guided early prospectors to their gold find. It's surrounded by some of the largest farms in Western Australia and stands at the western gateway to the world's largest and healthiest temperate woodland; the Great Western Woodlands.

For your final night on the Eastern Wheatbelt self-drive trail, stay at the heritage listed Palace Hotel, the Railway Tavern or the Club Hotel, the town's first hotel built in 1888. There is also a local motel, caravan park and self-contained accommodation. Enjoy sunset with panoramic views of the town, surrounding farmland and goldmines from Wimmera Hill Lookout.

Start the next day early with a drive 34km south of town to Frog Rock Nature Reserve (see #19 at map ref K5). Here you will find beautiful wildflowers in the spring with a wave-like rock formation and dam at the base of the rock. From Frog Rock you can make the journey back to Southern Cross and take in the Yilgarn History Museum (see #21 at map ref K4) open daily, for
